INTRODUCTION:

Nagzira Wildlife Sanctuary is located in the Bhandara district in the northeastern corner of Maharashtra. The small reserve covering 152 sq. km. is an important corridor that links southern and central forested areas like the Tadoba - Andhari and Kanha Tiger Reserves. Tigers, Leopards, Dhols, Jungle Cats, Sloth Bears, Hyaenas, Jackals, Wolves and Herbivores like gaur and sambar have made this their home. There is also an astonishing variety of butterflies and an interesting amphibian and reptilian population at Nagzira.

ETYMOLOGY:

There is a temple of 'Nag' (Snake) which is exactly in the middle of nagzira and a temple of Mahadeo. There was also a village inside the forest called as 'Nangthana' that adds up to the name of the forest. Nagzira got its name from this temple and 'zira' (zara) in marathi means a perennial source of water that comes out from a hill in Pongezara, Nagzira
